

Diversity and Climate Enhancement Committee (DRAFT)
2011-2012 End of the Year Report
Summary of Accomplishments, On-Going Work and Recommendations

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

The Diversity and Community Enhancement Committee of the College of Education established and achieved a number of goals in accordance with the mission of the committee. The work of the committee was organized into that work which was the responsibility of the committee as a whole and that which was planned and carried out by subcommittees. These subcommittees were based upon goals established by the committee of the whole at the close of the 2010 - 2011 year and included a year-long theme committee, a resources committee, a community enhancement committee, an undergraduate membership committee, and a handbook committee. Reports from each of these subcommittees follow.

The work of the entire DCEC was determined to include oversight of the work of the subcommittees, budget, the DCEC sponsorship grant, online resources and public face of the committee, and on-going discussion and planning focused on issues of concern to the DCEC.

SUBCOMMITTEE REPORTS

Subcommittee Name: Year-Long Theme, “Disability as Diversity”

Subcommittee Members: Kathleen Collins (co-chair), Joseph Valente (co-chair), Elizabeth Smolcic, Robert Clark, Mark Threeton and Kim Powell.

The Disability as Diversity theme, inspired by the mission of Penn State’s Disability Studies program, was to consider the social, experiential, and symbolic meaning of bodily and mental disabilities. The key goals of the “Disability as Diversity” theme were to examine and provoke discussion about the values and assumptions involved in the various explanatory models of disability (e.g., medical, social, cultural, and historical); to promote an understanding of disability is a natural part of human diversity that expands and enriches all our lifeworlds; questioning the illusion of the perfected body/mind: and arguing that a just and inclusive society must provide for the full and equal social participation of all individuals, regardless of their place in the continuum of abilities and disabilities.

Accomplishments:

- Organized with librarian Karla Schmitt and hosted a resource table providing theme related materials in the atrium of Chambers, which was attended by more than 100 students.
- Organized and hosted April research talk by Dr. Douglas Biklen, Dean of Syracuse University’s School of Education, pioneer in the area of facilitated communication and co-producer of the film Wretches and Jabberers
- Organized and hosted April film showing and Q&A with stars of Wretches and Jabberers, which chronicles the international advocacy work of Larry Bissonette and Tracy Thresher, individuals on the autism spectrum who were at one time considered “retarded” and who now use facilitated communication. Audience included undergraduate and graduate students, faculty and staff, and members of the public.
- Raised $3750 beyond DCEC funding to co-sponsor events. Co-sponsors included: The College of Arts and Architecture; The COE Deans’ Office; Learning and Performance Systems; Curriculum and Instruction; Library Disability Services; The Rock Ethics Institute; Smart Start Centre County; Educational Leadership and Policy; Counseling, Educational Psychology and Special Education; and UPAC.
